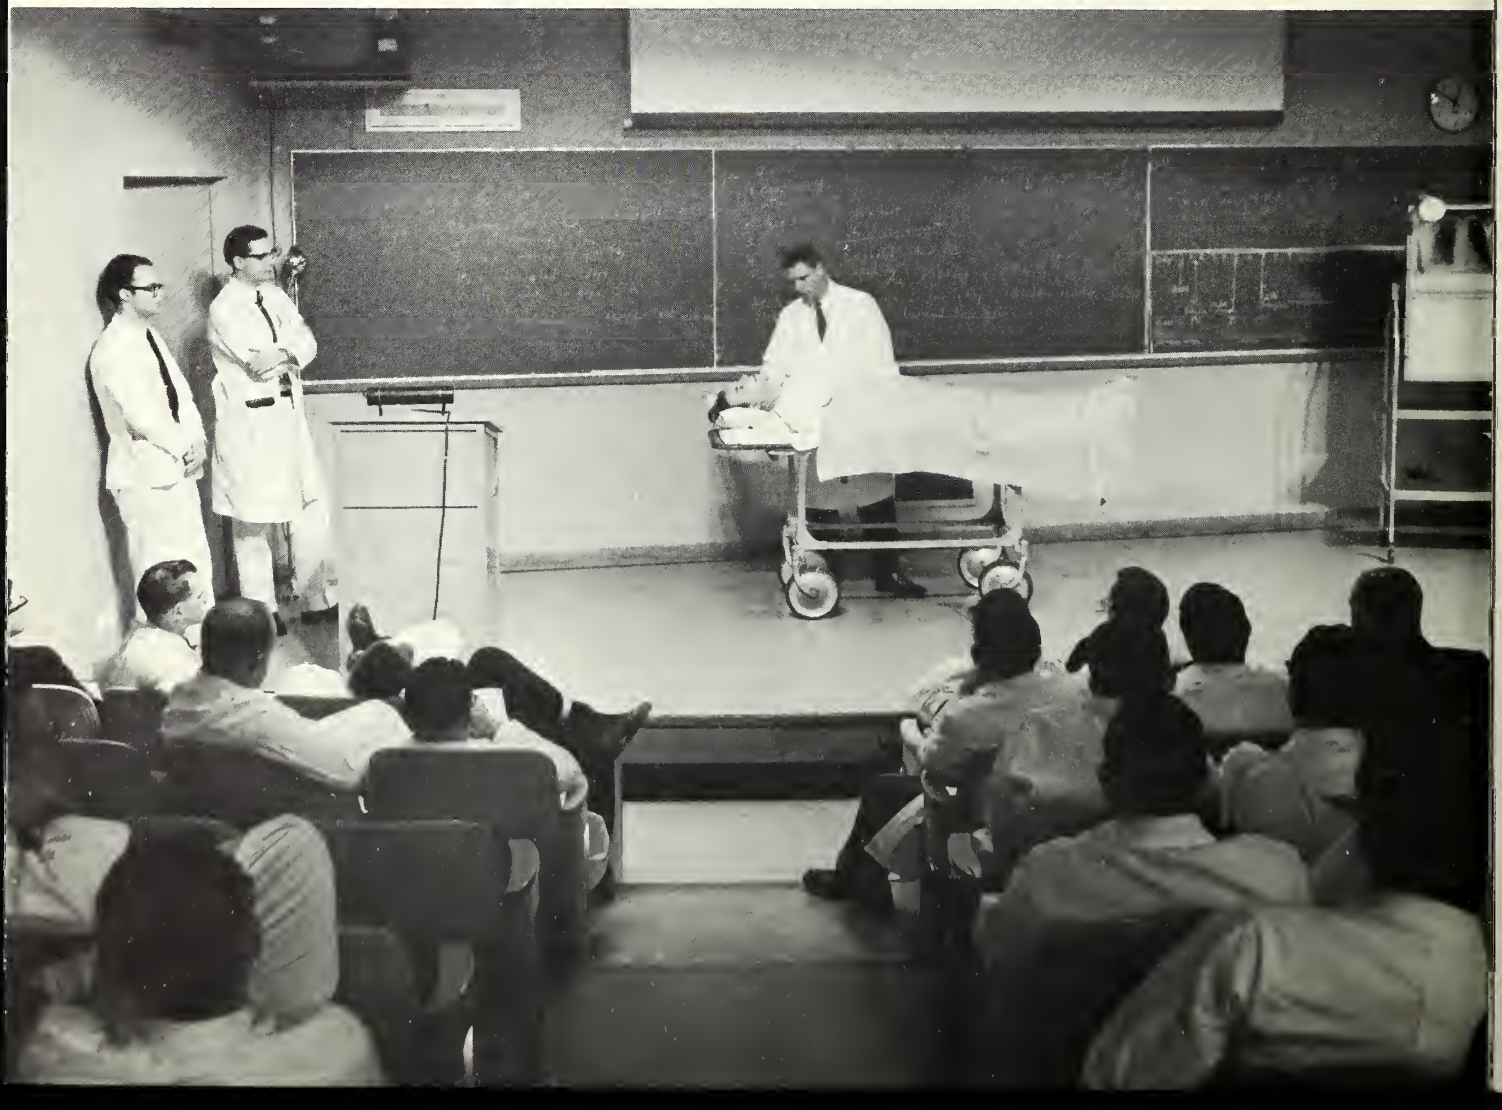
HOSPITAL AND CLASSROOM

HOSPITAL

The cafeteria, open eighteen hours each day, services both visitors and personnel.

Grand rounds, a regular feature of hospital activity, are presented from each area for the hospital staff.



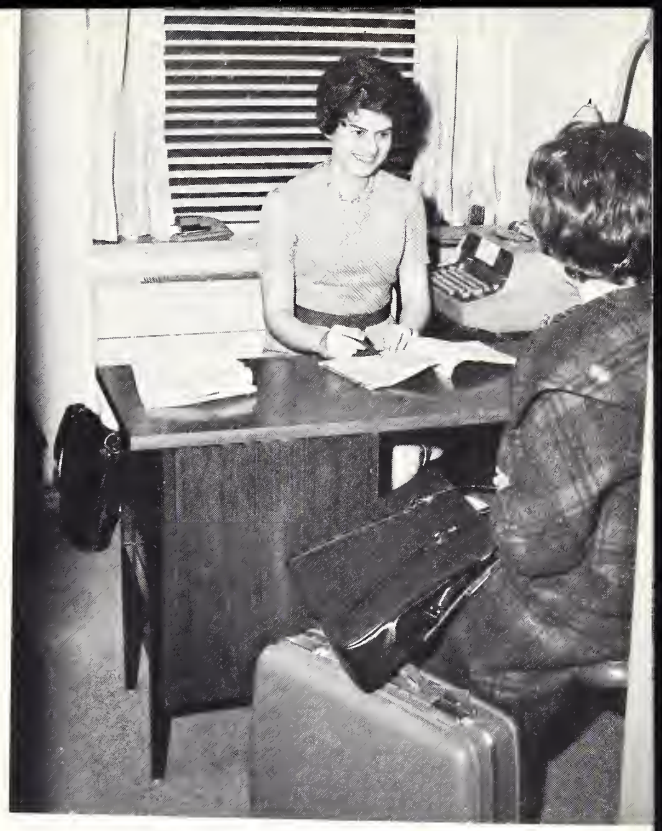
Informal conferences over coffee and cigarettes keep the tea room bustling.

"I'll pick it up in a half-hour," is a familiar phrase to Mr. Gdalman, head of the Hospital pharmacy.

Among other contributions to patient care, Chaplains Father Wagner and Dr. Brockway hold non-sectarian services in the chapel for ambulatory patients and radio listeners.

Presbyterian - St. Luke's version of the "blitz" will soon blossom into a new addition.

MEDICAL — SURGICAL



Smiles as well as statistics are a part of every patient's admission.

Conferences on the run may include any member of the patient care team.

Team nursing in action.

Physicians on rounds greet the patient q. AM.

Medication time!

Mr. Hilton demonstrates crutch walking as a part of his work in supplying the hospital with orthopedic equipment.

A smile of satisfaction as a student hears her first blood pressure.

Breakfast prepares the patient for a busy day.

Clinic experience includes weights on every patient.

Flowers and bedsocks as well as the circ-o-lectric bed facilitate a patient's convalescence.

INSTRUCTORS IN FUNDAMENTALS OF NURSING: V. Conley, B. Holmsten, C. Baitland, J. Edson, M. Gibbs, M. Poynton, I. Harris. Not pictured: K. Shortz, J. Schmitz.

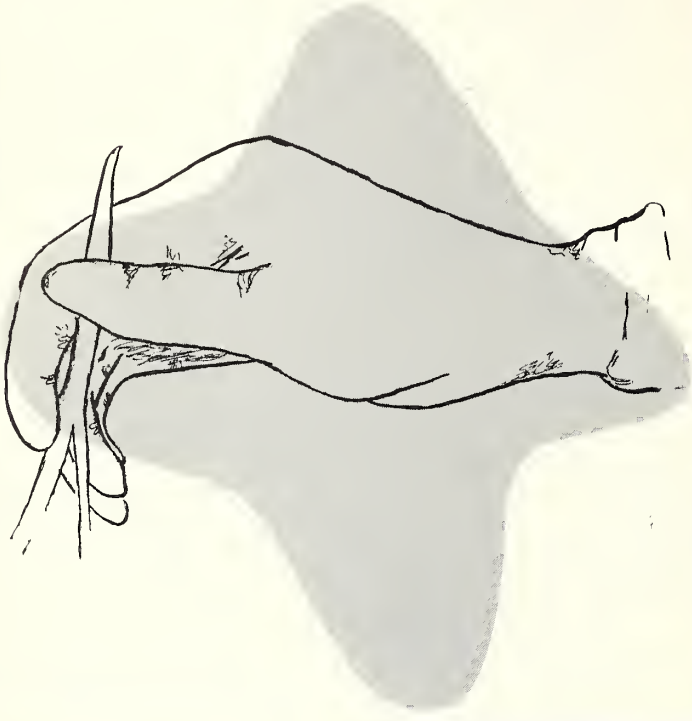
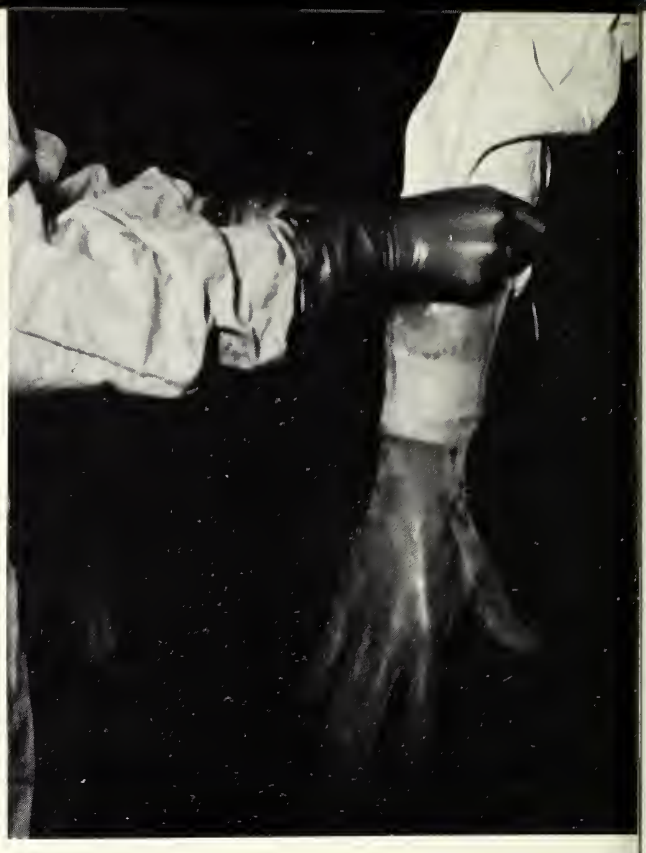
OPERATING ROOM





A surgeon's hands—

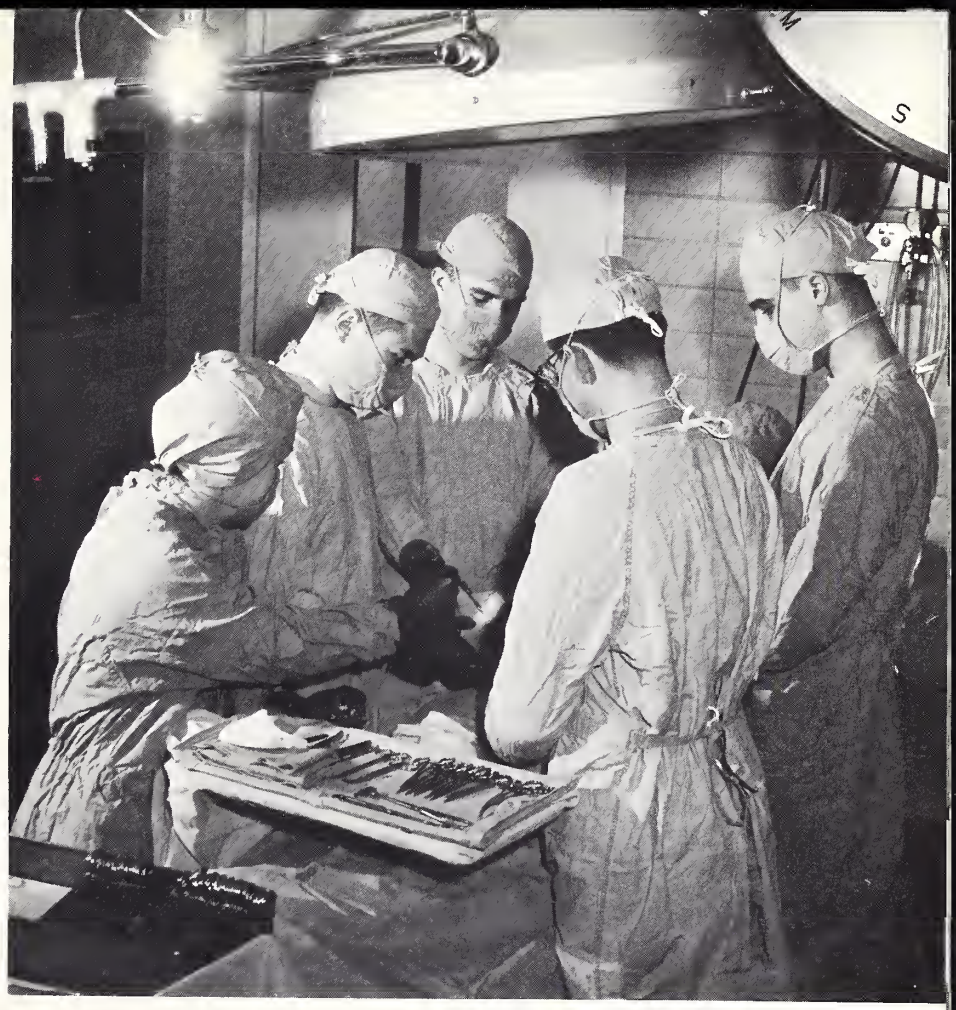
In the surgeon's workshop . . .

The Freshmen and Nurse Intern Instructors in the Operating Room: J. Ehardt, B. Jatal, C. Peterson.

Manual dexterity requires extensive practice.

"Ready, Doctor."

Stiff brushes, hot water and a lot of soap prepare the surgeon's hands.

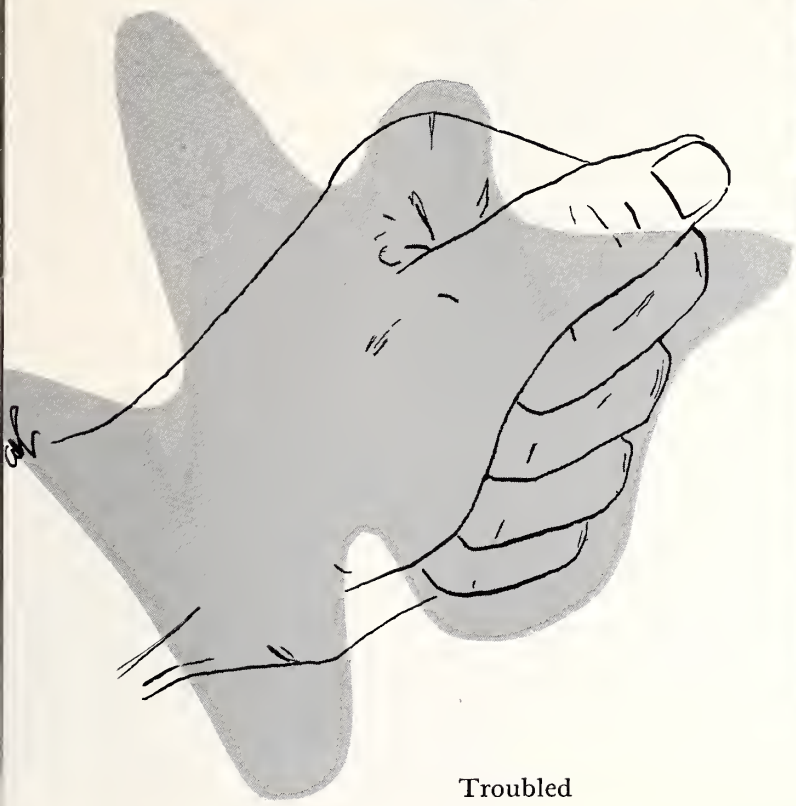


A coordination of hands and minds.

"Hemostat," and sets of hands respond.

Helping hands point the way to recovery.

PSYCHIATRY



Troubled

Say it with flowers once a week.

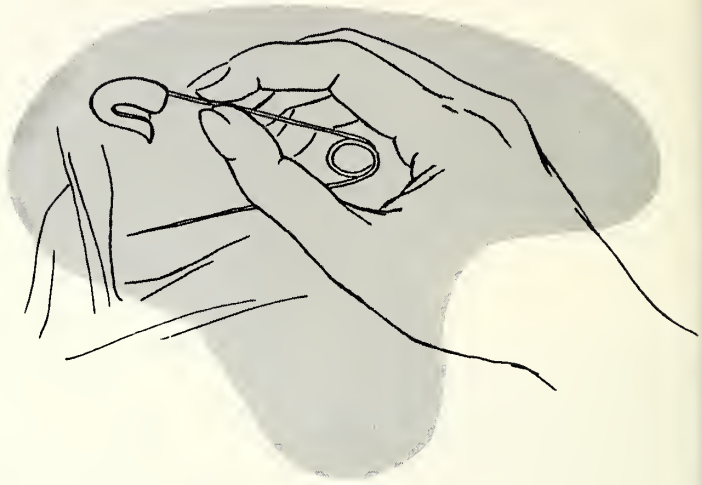
We learn that withdrawal is not the answer.

Working hands distract the mind.

As the shades of night are lifting . . .

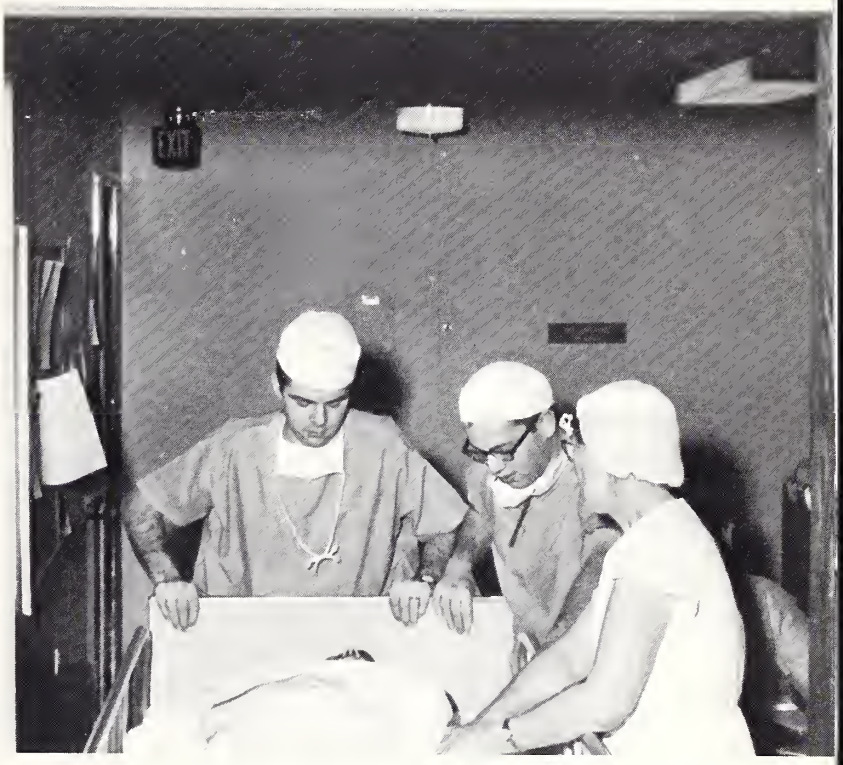
Instructors S. Robertson and F. Makowski help us work out our own feelings toward patients.

OBSTETRICS



Premature babies require extra gentle handling.

Another tax exemption.



"Is it really flat again?"

"Say 'cheese' for Mommy and Daddy."

Too much oxygen can cause retrolental fibroplasia.

Instructors A. Larsen, Assistant Chairman, and M. Miller offer us expert guidance in obstetrics.

PEDIATRICS

Cautious . . . Frightened . . . Confident . . . Reassuring

Smile for the camera man.

One of the many adorable, unforgettable children we meet in Pediatrics.

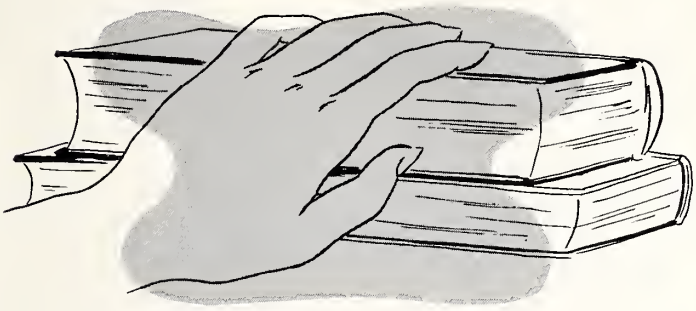
That's not how "Ben" does it.

Playladies are important too.

Instructors D. Mennecke, B. Waldron, M. Wendell, and T. Clemetsen help us understand the ways of children.

Our photographer, Austen Field, finds a fascinated listener.

CLASSROOM



P. Lusk, Counselor; R. Ferguson, Professional Orientation.

G. Nass; H. Warren; O. Schlesinger; C. Munro; H. Mauksch, Chairman, and W. Littlewood help us gain insight into the Social Sciences. Not pictured: D. Bradley, L. Pinto.

R. Crist; D. Schmitz; and F. Lockerby, Chairman, teach us the skills of Communication.

Instructors J. Packard; G. Sackheim; M. Steward, Chairman; P. Brown; and M. Schmittler make Natural Sciences more easily understood.

And this took a million years to develop!

Discovery of a strange, new world.

Instructors serve as resource people in our discussion periods.

"You missed!"
